Annabella Speaks Her Mind . . .

MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE

PROBABLY the most-discussed question in Hollywood today is the one concerning the Government edict that present star salaries must be slashed—and definitely! In that, Annabella, actress wife of Tyrone Power, agrees wholeheartedly. As she sees it, persons in motion pictures should go on doing all the work they can, making pictures and radio appearances, without compensation when that is forbidden by the wage ceiling which the Government has set up.

Annabella—Mrs. Tyrone Power—looks at salary ceilings

"Of course that is only my personal opinion," said Annabella, who has returned to pictures and will keep her home together while Ty is serving with the Marines for the duration. "I do not flatter myself that this view is patriotic, either," she stated when interviewed on the subject. "We have been dealt with most generously by the American public through the agency of the motion-picture industry. Is it not now up to us to do everything possible to uphold that industry as a means of service to the American people?"

In little Annabella's estimation, every member of the industry should serve the cause of war entertainment irrespective of personal profit. Looking at the subject from a merely selfish standpoint, it is but insurance for the future. To have motion pictures suffer in public esteem in these crucial times would be bad indeed. If they do, Annabella feels they will never again regain their prestige in our time.

"Everything except winning the war is beside the point," Annabella continued earnestly. "Of course it is a part of human nature to grumble about personal inconveniences. But all those will be as nothing if we do not win this war."

Annabella explained as she went on that she is an American citizen, born in France, and that the plight of her native country is naturally strong in her consciousness. Her eyes, that usually twinkle, were stormy as she said, "When I think we shall have fewer tires, less gasoline, my thoughts automatically turn to those lands that have no tires and no fuel for motors, or even heat. When I think we shall have less coffee and sugar, fewer luxuries, I think too of the countries that have no necessities—where there is not even enough milk to keep their babies alive.

"And when I think of the idea of questioning how much work we in Hollywood should or should not do to earn twenty-five thousand dollars a year—then I am angry.

"There is no want that is not happiness compared to defeat and slavery. If we lose this war, the people of Hollywood will not be concerned with trying to live on that amount—they will be concerned with trying to live at all. This is not a time to think of pay-checks; it is a time to think in terms of service to America. To fail in that is unspeakable!"

Today Meets Yesterday

Dinah Shore Greets Elsie Janis, Sweetheart of World War I's AEF

TWO wars were represented on Dinah Shore's Blue Network program recently. Elsie Janis, "Sweetheart of the AEF" in 1917-18, guested on the show, supported by veterans who heard her sing in France. Dinah, one of the present sweethearts of our armed forces, swapped yarns with Elsie about their experiences entertaining fighting men.

The Event Marked Double Premiere for Shipbuilding and Movies in San Francisco

ZING goes the bottle right on the dot, as another challenge to Axis dictators slides down the ways in San Francisco Bay. Below: The 10,000-ton freighter hits the waves

RADIO and screen personalities and members of the press descended on San Francisco to celebrate Navy Day this year. They came by plane, train and bus for a program of events which kept them all jumping. Day marked a double world premiere at the Naval Base Theater on Treasure Island and on the mainland at the Golden Gate showhouse of film "The Navy Comes Through," saga of the Atlantic, the Merchant Marine, and the men who man its guns. Coast-to-Coast broadcasts over NBC covered the event. Highlight of the day was a tour of the Richmond shipyards, where Ginny Simms christened the huge 10,000-ton Liberty freighter, the George H. Corliss. Turned out in thirty days, the boat is just one of hundreds of giant cargo craft being constructed by Oregon's wizard boat-builder, Henry J. Kaiser. Thousands of cheering shipyard workers greeted Ginny, and hailed George Murphy, who acted as m. c., introduced film stars Jackie Cooper, Jane Wyatt and Harold (Great Gildersleeve) Peary. Later at Treasure Island Theater Jackie played the drums in Jack Petty's shipyard band, and ship-building swingsters in outfits labeled "Bug Driver," "Welder" and "Fitter," to denote work they're doing, gave some great jive. Yep, Navy Day this year was a great day for Frisco!

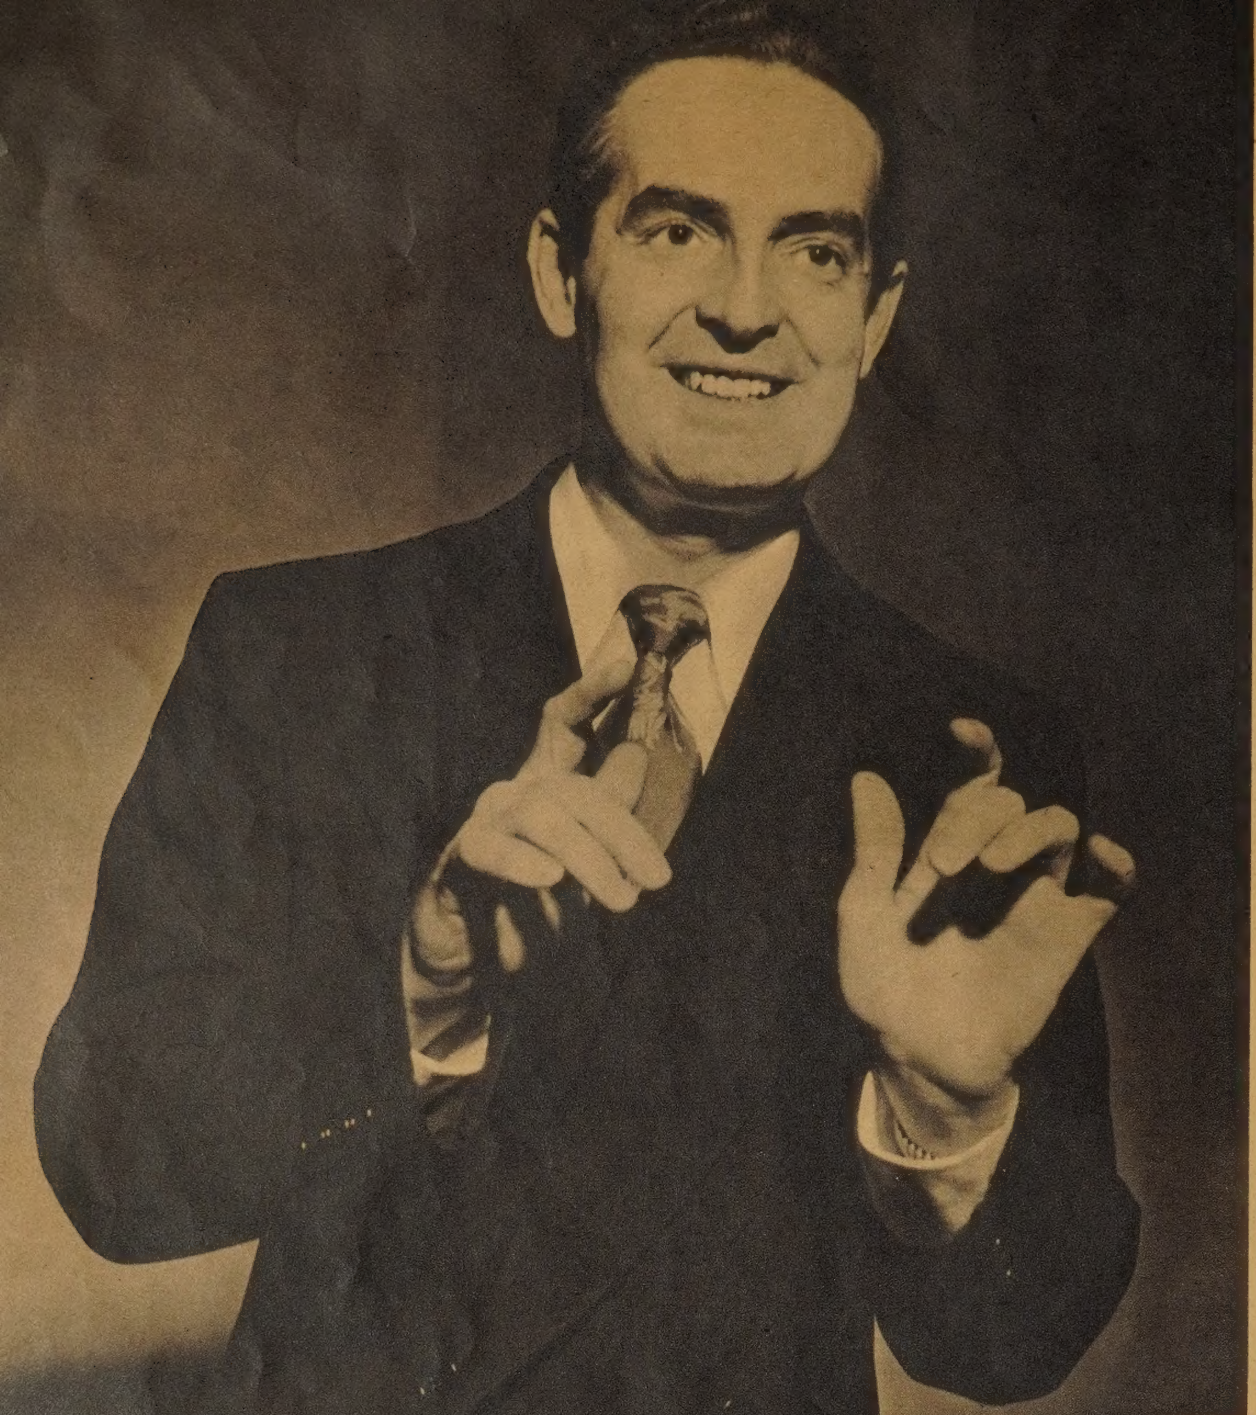
WARING WEARS WELL

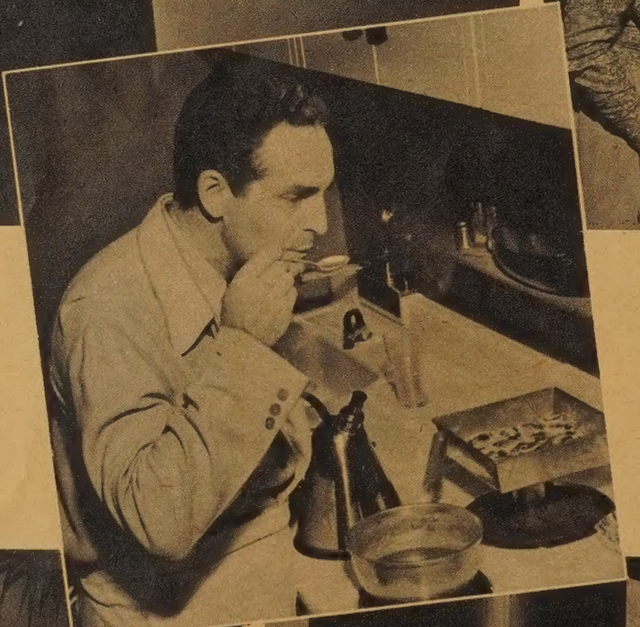
Fame That Endures Is Fred Waring's Reward for Top Entertainment

RADIO devours creative ideas and talents. Yesterday's jokes and songs and personalities are quickly forgotten. Millions-strong audiences are glutted with alarming speed—and they turn to something new.

But Fred Waring goes on and on, a perennial favorite. He is versatile, skilful, likable. His organization, the outgrowth of a quartet, is now large and many-sided. His band is smooth, his glee club tuneful. The shows Fred puts on have the variety without which no program can last in radio's cut-throat competition.

Today Fred's great interest lies in the writing of songs for our armed forces. Once content to be a top jazz musician, Waring is now proudest of such songs as "Sky Anchors," "Roll, Tanks, Roll," "The Fighting Quartermaster Corps," "The Men of the Merchant Marine" and "Look Out Below." All were composed, presented and published by Fred himself.





FRED WARING is shown above as he conducts the musical organization he built up from a banjo quartet. At right Fred samples the product of his private kitchen in his crew's New York headquarters

MELODIES For Uncle Sam

Novel Radio Show Runs on Liberty Hall Principle; Bond Purchases Give Audience Free Hand With Show

DO YOU want to lead a band? Or dance with your favorite movie star? Or bang away on the drums? Or sing a song over the air? Just about anything you want is yours on Freddy Martin's Pacific Coast radio program from 11:00 to 12:00 p.m. PWT Sundays.

The Cocoanut Grove is turned over to the guests for this broadcast—to the guests and to Uncle Sam. Merrymakers can gratify their hidden longings at the price of one war bond. A bond purchase will put Martin's baton in your hand, his band at your disposal. A bond is your ticket to say "Howdee" to the home folks over the microphone. Put your bond money on the line and you can dance with any celebrity present, or borrow a trombone, or sing your favorite song.

The resulting radio show is a mixture of one of the pleasanter types of insanity with patriotism. Everybody has a fine time, and their relaxed enjoyment gets across to listeners. The seriously patriotic side is, of course, a practical matter of dollars and sense. In ten weeks this Pacific Coast Blue Network program promoted the sale of more than $30,000 worth of war bonds and stamps.

JANET BLAIR:

The Girl Everybody Likes

The Type Women Pick Out for a Son or Brother

IN JANET'S home bailiwick, Altoona, Pa., she was known as the town's most-talented child, a natural song-and-dance girl that would have delighted the late George M. Cohan. Her earliest ambition was to be a ballet dancer, but father didn't think very highly of the notion. Finally he got so tired of seeing his daughter stand on her head and kick that he gave in. Roz Russell, with whom Janet is starred in "My Sister Eileen," grew so fond of her that she turned matchmaker and tried to arrange a romance between Janet and her brother George. However, Janet's real heart is Private Louis Busch of the Army Air Forces, formerly pianist for Hal Kemp's orchestra, where Janet was singing when Columbia offered her a movie contract. Gregory Ratoff, actor-director with a penchant for backing into the King's English and then exploding—still in reverse—takes the bow for discovering Janet. Now she's on her way up the star ladder—and fast! But she still likes to wear her hair in pigtails, tied with red ribbon.

AMERICA ON TRIAL!

Strong, Harsh Words Warn Americans Against the Dangers of Confusion, Smugness and War's Glamorous Side

IT IS no longer popular to say that Americans are not yet all out for war; but it is still true. The current fad, given impetus by the President himself, was to dismiss the critics as pessimistic scolds who get their ideas from their typewriters. Beginning with the President's return from his "secret" trip, we passed through an unhappy and dangerous interlude. In this period there was a concerted drive to cut the ground from under press and radio critics, with no distinction made between responsible and irresponsible commentators. That interlude is over, at least for a time. It ended with the remarkable radio speech of Mr. Wendell Willkie.

Most intelligent reporters who have worked abroad in this war have long known of what Willkie complained—that we are not expressing our political cause clearly and forcibly enough. The American story is not being told in the places of uncertainty. The "why" of our fight. Almost all the anguished globe looks to us to sound the theme song of the world to come, and so far our confused and doubting allies in the far corners have heard only a few faint strains, not always in key.

This, you may say, is the fault of Washington. But if Washington has been faint-hearted, confused and groping, it is partly because it is not carried along by a strong tide of popular feeling which should come up from the deep roots of the country. The sense of the reality of this desperate struggle is coming over our people very slowly. As yet it does not equal the feeling in Britain, China or Russia. (I do not speak of those among us who have already lost loved ones in the war. They know. Between them and the rest of us lies an unbridgeable gulf.) Why is this so? Twenty years of teaching ourselves that we were isolated from the rest of the world. Twenty years of corroding materialism. Twenty years in which we tried to forget that we were just members of the human race.

Slowly, as our ships go down, as the casualty lists come in, realism works its way back into the bloodstream of America. The process moves too slowly for the pace of this war, and I feel compelled to assert that so far American radio and motion pictures have not speeded the process. Sometimes I think they have actually impeded it. As one whose career is bound up in radio, may I sound a warning? A slow, dull resentment against the daily microphone fare is rising in the people. We cannot "sell" this war to the people by the time-honored methods by which we have always sold hair-oil and liver-pills. In times that try men's souls, men want sincerity and simple, honest speech. This is not a medicine show. The silky tones, the unctuous bombast must be stopped. Every radio station in America should begin at once a rigorous self-examination. Announcers and newscasters who cannot rid themselves of affectation should themselves be gotten rid of. We should have some kind of national board of censorship over commercial announcements. This war is not a bandwagon to which ad-writers can hitch their laxatives, breath-sweeteners and cigarettes. Hourly use of so-and-so's product simply will not bring the day of victory closer, and I am convinced that millions of Americans are beginning to feel an increasing anger at the constant suggestion that it will. For radio, a tremendous task and an inspiring opportunity lies at hand.

And so also for the motion pictures. American pictures have always been the most entertaining in the world, but they have also been the most unreal. We have been at war, struggling for our very national life, for nearly a year. In that time I have not yet seen one Hollywood production which comes to grips with the reality, the pain and suffering, the exaltation, the profundity of this war. The best attempt so far was not a Hollywood production but the "Battle of Midway," made during the actual fighting. The expression on the faces of those wounded fliers as they were brought home from the sea could scarcely be equaled by any actor. It made one's heart tighten, it brought compassion, and a deep pride in the American fighting man. Only where Hollywood touched the picture did it become false and cheap. I mean the silly commentary by a Hollywood character actress, which made me ashamed. French picture-makers were not afraid of reality, the Russians are not afraid of it. Why should we be afraid?

When I voiced these complaints on a national radio forum, my friend Walter Wanger answered that Hollywood would like to give us real pictures but that the ticket-buying public would not permit it. With due respect for a most enlightened producer, I cannot feel this is a satisfactory answer. Hollywood created the people's habit so far as movies are concerned, and now that our time of trial has come, Hollywood must assume leadership in guiding the people into reality and understanding.

I am afraid we at home are still, by and large, in the "fashion show" phase

OPERA IN THE HAYLOFT

Good Neighbor Policy Works as "National Barn Dance" and Chicago Civic Opera Share Quarters

WAR makes strange bedfellows, and it's thanks to the war that Chicagoans are treated to a new and startling fellowship. The city's lordly grand opera company is housed under the same roof as that hash of hinterland hysteria, the "National Barn Dance."

Until this fall, NBD had its own hayloft at the Eighth Street Theater. But the Army asked for that space, and lectures in technical Air Forces subjects echo where once was only Corn Belt humor and square-dance clatter.

So the Hayloft was moved to the Civic Theater, a modern auditorium in the same building as the Civic Opera House. On a still night, bargemen on the river are treated to the mingled strains of "Celeste Aida" and "The Red River Valley."

Performers of both shows have become great pals, smoking and chatting backstage. Lawrence Tibbett is a red-hot NBD fan.

REALISTIC PARROT UPSETS MOVIE DIRECTOR!

THE MOVIE FRONT

By FRANCES LONG

Good neighbor. Jeanette MacDonald has worked out a plan for the time when gas-rationing will keep her community in their own back yards. She has offered her playroom to the "Neighbors' Club," which Bel-Air, suburb of Hollywood where Jeanette lives, is organizing, as a meeting-place for evenings at home in future. For these get-togethers, Jeanette has obtained a piano, ping-pong tables and a radio, plus the small comforts that put guests in a mood for relaxation. It's an ill wind that doesn't blow some good! Who knows, perhaps Americans will discover that home isn't just a place to sleep. At least Jeanette's idea seems to point in that direction and sounds like a fine one for any neighborhood to follow . . .

Happy landing for Pamela. First honest-to-goodness Hollywood war baby was born to Brenda Joyce and Lieutenant Owen Ward. Her name's Pamela, and she weighed six and one-half pounds on arrival. Mama Brenda is getting along fine, and the lieutenant's tunic buttons are in grave danger of popping right off his chest, he's that proud. And what man wouldn't be, with such a beautiful wife as 20th Century's blond Joyce, who had the courage to take time out from a bright movie career to have a war baby . . .

Epilog to fame. In a neighboring auctioneer's shop is a sign reading, "Effects of Elaine Jacobs Barrie, former wife of late John Barrymore, to be sold." Miss Barrie already has sold the Bel-Air home John left her and moved into smaller quarters . . .

Remembrance of laughter. Edna May Oliver left Hollywood last week—forever. But it will be a long time before the film colony will forget her

MOVIE REVIEW

"My Sister Eileen"

Roz Russell and Janet Blair in "Sister Eileen"

Cast: Rosalind Russell, Janet Blair, Brian Aherne, George Tobias, Allyn Joslyn, Elizabeth Patterson, Grant Mitchell, Richard Quine, June Havoc, Donald MacBride, Gordon Jones, (Miss) Jeff Donnell, Clyde Fillmore, Minna Phillips, Frank Sully, Charles La Torre. A Columbia picture; producer, Max Gordon; director, Alexander Hall. Screen and stage play by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov, which were adapted from original Ruth McKenney stories.

Type of Picture: Uproarious comedy that is even funnier than the stage play!

This Is the Story: The Broadway hit comes to the screen with very few changes and a heap more laughs, if that is possible. The Sherwood sisters (Roz Russell, Janet Blair) leave Columbus, Ohio, after a minor tragedy in their lives to find fame and fortune in New York. Ruth (Roz) is interested in writing, Eileen (Janet) in dramatics. From the moment they land in Manhattan, Eileen, the belle of the family, is pursued—with laughs—by the sterner sex, and promises of fat roles on Broadway, while Ruth tries earnestly to sell her stories and keep them both eating. There's never a let-up in the fun from the moment the two girls move into a basement apartment in Greenwich Village, with its worm's-eye view of the street.

Verdict: A-1 entertainment for the whole family!

CHARLIE McCARTHY is out to win the war. His paratroop school recently opened its doors (and a collection of Bergen's umbrellas) for the training of future heroes. In fact, his students are heroes already, or else slightly teched in the head, considering the state of the "bombershoot" equipment Charlie offers. As usual, Charlie plays the part of the theoretician, leaving the practical work — and the crashes — to Mortimer Snerd. Prospective students should apply immediately, for Edgar Bergen is certain to miss his umbrellas soon and call a halt.

priceless sense of humor and her matchless characterizations on the screen. Miss Oliver died at the age of fifty-nine. Like the beloved Marie Dressler, she's left an empty niche in our hearts that no one else can fill . . .

In answer to a query from many of our readers, the little girl who appeared with Vic Mature in our September 5-11 issue is Constance Coler, daughter of Lieut. Kenneth A. Coler of the U. S. Coast Guard . . .

Paging Gary Cooper. We hope Cecil B. DeMille can get Gary to play the role of Dr. Wassell in his film built around the exploits of the former Arkansas country doctor, war hero Croydon M. Wassell. Following incident from the life of the real Dr. Wassell is just one that proves Coop would be a natural for the part: Honored with the Navy Cross for rescuing nine helplessly wounded American sailors from Java during the Japanese invasion, he still hasn't got over his amazement at being mentioned by President Roosevelt in one of his radio fireside chats and being invited to visit the chief executive. He was even so modest that he shied away from the invitation. In fact, his wife had to tell Navy officials that, although he wouldn't say so himself, the doctor would be "thrilled to death" if a meeting with Mr. President could be arranged . . .

Outspoken bird gets the gate. A parrot was needed for "Cat People," and Pete, a Brazilian gentleman of good repute according to his trainer, was hired for the job. Script called for him to chatter, sans cussing, as background noise with other animals in a pet-shop. Came his great moment, and he screamed: "Quiet, you blankety-blank lunkheads! We're rolling! Camera!" The director yelled, "Cut," and glared, as the stricken trainer apologized, "Sir, Pete never said that before. He must have remembered what the director we worked for last week said." But Pete was in disgrace and the director got another parrot. Too bad such an honest bird should have got such a shabby deal! . . .

Jottings from Movietown. Joan Blondell just returned from entertaining servicemen in Newfoundland, tired but in great spirits and inspired by the courage and fighting spirit of our men. Even the fact that the ship that took her from the mainland was torpedoed couldn't dampen her enthusiasm to do everything she can for the armed forces . . . Dinah Shore, now in Warners' "Thank Your Lucky Stars," and Olivia de Havilland, on the same lot, have a common interest that may develop into a great friendship for the two—Lieut. Jimmy Stewart, Dinah's present heart and Livvy's in the past . . . CORWIN DESCRIBES ENGLISH "AUSTERITY" . . . GROHMS PLAY HOB WITH CHICAGO RADIO

NEW YORK

By E. KAY

Norman Corwin, CBS writer-producer recently returned from London, enlightened us concerning radio there. The English are using the word "austerity" to describe things in general. Suits with no cuffs on the pants are austerity suits; meals with three courses are austerity meals, and, above all, the word applies to radio in England today. We know that any night in the week we can turn our dials and listen to programs that are heard on that particular night week in and week out—but not the British listener. He seldom knows very far in advance what programs will be scheduled and his choice is limited. Corwin has promised to do an article for us wherein he will tell you more about radio in England . . .

Ray Knight and his "Cuckoos" used to tickle our funny-bone, but now that he is back with two conspirators to aid and abet him, we are taking a licking in the rib-tickling department. "The Three R's," Ray Knight, Glenn Riggs and Joe Rines, heard on the Blue Network, are as zany a trio as ever faced a microphone. Knight writes the show and Riggs and Rines are vice presidents in charge of ripping it to bits . . .

Arthur Vinton, farmer and actor heard over NBC in "Mr. District Attorney," was discussing his farm with Ed Byron, director of the program. Arthur told about the prize turkeys he raises, spoke about his cows but was especially attracted to his roosters. "You know," he confided, "those roosters are really smart. Ever since Pearl Harbor, instead of crowing, they have hissed the rising sun" . . .

THE BARON'S BACK. Jack Pearl (left) plays the Baron of tall-tale fame, while Cliff Hall is the Sharlie. They're on MBS Wed.

Actors! If you're anemic, turn down casting-calls for "Young Dr. Malone." Elizabeth Reller, the lead, is a friendly young person who pops up eagerly to greet each new addition to the cast. First she gets you to sign up for a blood donation and then she collects a quarter for the weekly stamp pool. Up to date Elizabeth hasn't had any turn-downs. No wonder radio needs a shot in the arm occasionally . . .

"Famous Jury Trials," now heard on the Blue, has dressed the program to represent a real courtroom. They have a jury box with twelve jurors tried and true, a witness stand, the judge wears a black robe and the district and defense attorneys really mean business. We became so enthralled we applauded when the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Jay Jostyn ("Mr. District Attorney") was the defense attorney the night we attended court. How does it feel to be on the defense, Jay? . . .

Dave Elman received the first Jap flag captured on Guadalcanal for his "Victory Auction" . . . Lenore Kingston, who plays Ebba in "Against the Storm" on NBC, is the proud recipient of the first Woman's War Emergency Radio Service operator's license in New York City . . . Raymond, mine host of "Inner Sanctum Mysteries" heard on the Blue, received a can of oil for the creaking door from a fan . . . Charlie Cantor, Clifton Finnegan on "Duffy's," has been added to the cast of Jack Pearl's Mutual "Cresta Blanca Carnival" . . . Twelve-year-old Ronny Liss (Bobby on "Bright Horizon" on CBS) is now an honorary ensign. Ronny completed three scale-model planes in accordance with specifications approved by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the U. S. Navy . . . Evelyn Juster, formerly of Chicago radio, is now a member of the cast of "Just Plain Bill" . . . DON'T FORGET TO BUY TUBERCULOSIS CHRISTMAS SEALS . . . "Corky" Corcoran, youngest member of the Harry James outfit, being all of eighteen, will take a wife November 29. "Corky" is Harry's adopted son.

In the "It Shouldn't Happen to a Dog" department, the Lew Crosbys take the prize. Lew, who is announcer on the "Lum and Abner" program, was cleaning his gun after a duck-hunting trip, very much under the impression it was unloaded. Much to his dismay, off it went and got him in the toe of his right foot. Mrs. Crosby, who was preparing lunch, rushed out, nearly fainted at the sight but managed to get him to the hospital. Some hours later, after Lew's toe was amputated, Mrs. Crosby remembered she left lunch cooking on the stove. Calling Norris Goff (Abner), her neighbor, on the phone, she asked him to dash over and turn off the stove. But when Goff arrived, he found he'd been preceded by the fire department, police department and a host of neighbors, saw great waves of smoke streaming out of the windows. Fortunately nothing outside the kitchen was damaged, but it's a day the Crosbys will long remember. The next time we go to say, "EVERYthing happens to me," we'll think twice . . .

A proud papa for the third time, Lou Costello was presented with a six-pound baby boy by Mrs. C. To hail the advent of Lou, Jr., which is what the baby will be called, Lou did not pass out the customary cigars. Instead he was dishing out partially filled war-stamp albums. So inspired was he with this idea, he wants to enlist all American papas in a "War Stamps for War Births" movement. With the thousands of war babies born all over the country every day, the extra revenue from such a source would aid the Treasury Department immeasurably. Whaddya say, fellas, are you willing? . . .

Always ready with a good quip, Victor Borge this week tells of the man who eats nothing but patriotic food. It all goes to the front . . .

Arthur "Dagwood" Lake is thanking his lucky stars these days that television is not being used yet. His scripts have been pretty rough lately, and had a recent one been acted out he'd have been a pretty bruised and battered fellow. Costumed as a Nazi for a part in a play, during the half-hour he would have been socked three times on the chin, hit with a catsup bottle, banged on the head four times with a frying-pan, menaced by a farmer's shotgun, a tommy-gun and a club, choked and given a good shaking, almost killed by an irate housewife and as a finishing-touch bopped on the head with a vase by son Alexander. Who says the life of an actor is nothing but large dishes of peaches and cream? . . .

Famous New York stage star and Hollywood screen actor Sidney Blackmer has joined Lionel Barrymore's "Mayor of the Town" cast as a permanent member and will portray Dr. Jim Elliott. A veteran in the theater, Blackmer won the Academy Award in 1938 for his portrayal of Teddy Roosevelt . . .

Family news: Radio's keeping the department of vital statistics hopping. Danny Thomas, emcee of that swell Saturday night variety show from Great Lakes, is chortling over the arrival of Teresa Cecilia, his second child. Three days later Jim Campbell, Blue announcer, topped Danny with the announcement of twins, a boy and a girl. And our scratch-pad notes remind us that Thanksgiving is Vivian Fridell's first wedding anniversary. Vivian has the lead part of Mary Nobel in "Backstage Wife." But the best bit of family news is in the reunion department. Burr Lee recently directed a young Army flier in "Victory Marches." The pilot's name is Lieutenant Burr Lee, Jr. . . .

How about starting such a club in your neighborhood? . . .

MET OFFERS DONIZETTI'S "LUCIA" SAT. . . . LEVANT GUEST OF "TELEPHONE HOUR"

Lily Pons in Season's Opening Met Broadcast Sat.; Rodzinski Directs Shostakovich's "First" Sun.; Gershwin Piece on "Telephone Hour" Mon.

By ROBERT BAGAR

New York World-Telegram Music Critic and Associate Program Annotator for Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York

THE first Metropolitan Opera broadcast of the year brings an old friend—not to say battle-horse—in Donizetti's ever popular "Lucia di Lammermoor." Principals for this performance are the dainty Lily Pons as Lucia, Jan Peerce as Edgardo and Leonard Warren as Ashton. Both Miss Pons and Mr. Peerce have appeared before in their respective roles, but Mr. Warren comes through with his first impersonation of the blackguardly Ashton.

The part of the heroine in this work has ever been a favorite of the coloraturas. The great sopranos, from Persiani on to those of the present day, have reveled in the floridities of the Mad Scene, for instance. Notable Lucias have been Jenny Lind, Adelina Patti, Emma Albani, Christine Nilsson, Marcella Sembrich, Luisa Tetrazzini, Maria Barrientos, Amelita Galli-Curci, Toti dal Monte and others. Miss Pons made her debut in this role at the Metropolitan on January 31, 1931.

Not to be outdone by the distaff side, tenors of great distinction have appeared as Edgardo. There have been Italo Campanini, Tamagno, Caruso, Bonci, Martinelli, Schipa, Gigli and Lauri-Volpi, to mention a few.

Based on Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Bride of Lammermoor," the opera's libretto is by Salvatore Cammarano. "Lucia di Lammermoor" was given its first performance at the Teatro San Carlo, Naples, on September 26, 1835. New York's first experience with it came at Niblo's Garden in Italian on September 15, 1843. And two years later it was given in English at the Park Theater and in French at the Academy of Music in 1869, these last two again in New York. The initial performance at the Metropolitan occurred on October 24, 1883, when Sembrich embodied the Lucia.

This year's Metropolitan broadcasts will have new features for the delectation of the listeners. There will be "Opera-War Victory Parties," an "Opera Column of the Air" and, as usual, the "Opera Forum." Intermissions, it appears, will have as important a place in the scheme as the actual performance. It sounds interesting.

("Lucia di Lammermoor" will be broadcast from the Metropolitan stage over the Blue Network Sat., Nov. 28.)

Gershwin and the Concert Hall

Now that George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" has been given a Toscanini performance, one can expect a full-time resurgence of the American composer's music over the airwaves. Apropos of which there is the scheduling of "An American in Paris" on the NBC "Telephone Hour" broadcast to consider. This work has charm, as most of us who have heard it can say. The subject of a bon vivant from the States humorously pining away for home was one that Gershwin treated with considerable adroitness.

The piece is gay, light, airy and it possesses the quality of effervescence. Of course, it isn't a Richard Strauss tone poem, nor is it a Debussy canvas, but it does have a distinctly American personality. Gershwin has invented better melodic themes than are incorporated here. But he has rarely been more natural in his treatment of the jazz idiom.

Oscar Levant, who seems to have assumed the post of chief Gershwin interpreter, is the soloist on this broadcast. His solo group, however, goes Chopin, in that he will play one of that composer's waltzes and an etude. Closing the broadcast is the Leo Sowerby "Song for Americans."

(George Gershwin's "An American in Paris" may be heard on the "Telephone Hour" Monday, November 30, over NBC. Oscar Levant will be guest soloist.)

More Shostakovich

Artur Rodzinski, conducting the Philharmonic-Symphony for a fortnight, offers on his second Sunday broadcast with the orchestra a program consisting of the Weber overture to "Oberon," the First Symphony of Shostakovich, Morton Gould's "Spirituals" and waltzes from "Der Rosenkavalier."

Shostakovich, of course, is the piece de resistance. The Soviet composer's music has never known such attention as is being given it currently. The courageous Russian stand against the Nazi hordes may have a lot to do with that, Shostakovich being, in a manner of speaking, his people's voice. However, his compositions have enough worth to be themselves the attraction.

IN "LUCIA" ROLE coloratura Lily Pons opens opera broadcast season over the Blue Network Saturday direct from the Met stage

Having heard the Seventh Symphony several times, this writer is still strangely unmoved by it, but that is another story. The First, written when Shostakovich was nineteen, is still considered in some exalted circles the composer's best in the form. Always the servant of the state, he labored over his scores with the uppermost thought of explaining Soviet perfection through his music. One of his typical utterances regarding this very idea goes, "We, as revolutionists, have a different conception of music. Lenin himself has said that 'Music is a means of unifying broad masses of people.' Not a leader of masses, perhaps, but certainly an 'organizing force.' For music has the power of stirring specific emotions in those who listen to it.

"Good music lifts and heartens and lightens people for work and effort. It may be tragic, but it must be strong. It is no longer an end in itself, but a vital weapon in the struggle."

These were words penned in 1931. His ideology has not changed with the years. The ups and downs he has known in official favor have served to bring him closer to his avowed purposes to the effect that "Music cannot help having a political basis—an idea that the bourgeoisie are slow to comprehend. There can be no music without ideology."

How much of this is balderdash and how much an unvarnished truth one has no way of knowing. It does seem to me, though, that Shostakovich possesses urges powerful enough to compose, no matter what their nature. The point I am trying to make is that Shostakovich might have written those works under some other political setup. Slogans and catch-phrases, I'd say, are silly stuff. In the long run it will be the music—as music—that counts.

(Shostakovich's "First Symphony" will be played by the Philharmonic-Symphony, Artur Rodzinski conducting, Sunday, November 29, CBS.)

Concert Records

Victor has released several interesting albums in the past few days. First of these is the remarkably fine recording of the Schubert B-flat Major trio for violin, cello and piano, with Jascha Heifetz, the late Emanuel Feuermann and Artur Rubinstein to do the playing. Another is the Pierre Monteux-San Francisco Symphony performance of Rimsky-Korsakoff's Scheherazade, which, outside of some sluggish woodwind playing, is a worthy accomplishment. Then there is the Gladys Swarthout set of arias from French operas. The list contains the Siebel song from "Faust," "Que Fais Tu?" from "Romeo et Juilette" and others.

Vaughn Monroe: He also clicked with the ladies

BY THE merest luck Vaughn Monroe became a trumpet-player. A young friend of his, recipient of a magnificent trumpet as a gift, found that he could not perform on the instrument, because of a dental disability. Result, he gave the trumpet to young Vaughn, and that started something.

Plans, great glorious plans, for Vaughn's career as an engineer went as far as a year or two at Carnegie Tech. In 1932, when Vaughn kissed his college days good-by, he took up with Larry Funk's band. He remained with that outfit for a time, then moved his belongings, including one trumpet and a pair of natural trumpet lips, to an orchestra conducted by Jack Marshard.

With an exemplary lack of vanity, Marshard soon turned the band over to young Vaughn, who, the former leader had discovered, made a hit with the ladies. Thus Marshard became the band's business manager.

Born in Akron, Ohio, Monroe got that "Vaughn" name because his mother remembered a schoolgirl "crush" of hers for one Vaughn Glaser, a matinee idol of the time. The young leader first attracted national attention through his NBC broadcasts from Boston. In 1940 he did the not unusual thing of reorganizing his band.

Now, as almost everybody knows, he not only sings with the orchestra but he also takes a regular turn at playing the trumpet "just to keep his hand in." The six-foot-two maestro was offered a 20th Century-Fox movie contract last year after he had made a successful screen test. They wanted him, minus the band, for juvenile roles. He refused. Nevertheless, he is slated to work under the M-G-M aegis. Apparently, he is very likely movie material.

Benny Goodman and his orchestra deliver a pair of their most typical performances—which means, specifically, solid rhythm, well-played arrangements, and much imagination—via "Six Flats Unfurnished" and "Why Don't You Do Right?" These are contained on a Columbia disk. Freddy Martin and his musicians converge engagingly on "I Get the Neck of the Chicken" and "Can't Get Out of This Mood" on a Victor record.

Another Victor item worth the buyer's time is that offering Dinah Shore in "You'd Be So Nice to Come Home To" and "Manhattan Serenade."

FM BROADCASTERS SEE ROSY FUTURE . . . PARTS SCARCITY MAJOR WORRY

Majority of FM Programs Exclusive to FM Listeners; Face Shortage of Skilled Technicians; Two New Outlets for New York City

By DICK DORRANCE

FM Takes Inventory

THE outlook for continued FM broadcasting is more than encouraging if we are to accept the results of a recent survey conducted by FM Broadcasters, Inc., the national trade association of frequency-modulation stations. Last month this group sent questionnaires to every FM outlet in the country, requesting latest information on their present operation and probable war-time plans.

Most important of the several facts learned is that not one of the commercial FM stations currently operating has any thought of curtailing its daily schedules. The questionnaires went to each of the thirty-seven commercial and eight experimental transmitters now on the air, also to some seventeen more outlets supposedly still under construction. FM Broadcasters, Inc., reports better than an eighty percent response to its questionnaire, and has made interesting tabulations of all replies.

The average FM station, for example, now operates ten and a half hours daily. Two New England transmitters maintain twenty-four-hour service, while there are a number of others running in excess of fifteen hours a day. The shortest schedule is six hours, since the Federal Communications Commission has set this as the minimum.

Special for FM Fans

There has been a frequent and almost stubborn notion that most FM transmitters—since the majority are connected with regular AM broadcast stations—fail to offer much in the way of non-duplicated programming. The FMBI survey effectively torpedoes this notion. It shows that 83.7 percent of the programs heard every day over the nation's FM outlets are exclusive, and available only to FM listeners. There's a large number of cases where better than seventy-five percent are exclusive, but the average is sadly pulled down by a few East Coast stations that are broadcasting almost the same programs as their AM parents, and thus acting as little more than echoes of what any listener can hear on his regular AM receiver.

At least twenty-eight of the commercial FM stations maintains full- or part-time staffs devoting their efforts toward making the caliber of FM entertainment better. This includes research in new programming techniques, studies of FM audience reaction, and refinements in FM studio and transmitter equipment. Incidentally, six of the full-time FM commercial stations have no connection with any AM interests and are operated as completely independent ventures.

Any Old Radio Tubes?

One of the more significant queries asked by the FMBI questionnaire was, "What are your greatest current problems in connection with continued operation?" Station operators placed the growing scarcity of transmitting tubes and replacement parts far ahead of all other worries. A rather close second was the problem of personnel, with many stations admitting that they face a shortage of skilled technicians and suitable program people. A few stated simply that they have no problems.

FM Broadcasters, Inc., also pointed out that a third of the frequency-modulation outlets today are unable to serve with adequate signal strength the entire area assigned to them by Washington. This is due in almost every case to the use of temporary antennas and reduced wattage, since needed materials are tied up in the war effort.

News from New York

November seems to have been a profitable month for FM in New York City. The long-awaited W75NY of Metropolitan Television, Inc., went on the air, operating from 3 to 9 p.m., and serving a good share of its assigned 8,500 square miles. It's the eighth frequency-modulation outlet to be heard by New York FM listeners, who now have a sizable selection on the dial from which to choose.

A dark-horse has also entered the New York picture with the appearance of W39NY, licensed to the Municipal Broadcasting System which operates the city's official station, WNYC. At the time this is written, W39NY is reportedly ready to begin testing and will soon serve 3,900 square miles—roughly about a third larger than the actual area of New York City itself.

After Sunset, Too

W39NY, as the FM voice of the municipal government, will be a welcome adjunct to the AM outlet, WNYC. For some time now, New York's energetic little mayor, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, has fought a running battle with the Federal Communications Commission in an effort to secure permission for WNYC's unlimited operation. Unfortunately, however, WNYC uses the same channel in the AM broadcasting band as a station in Minneapolis and, because ordinary broadcast waves act as they do after dark, WNYC has always been required by the FCC to go off the air at the time of local sunset in Minneapolis. It has been the FCC's contention that WNYC would cause considerable interference with the Minnesota station, and the whole case provides an excellent example of the problems that bar the establishment of further large AM stations.

W39NY will have no such worries, thereby giving the city of New York an official voice that can broadcast throughout the evening hours. Even though another station uses the same 43.9 megacycle channel at a location as near by as the top of Mount Washington, New Hampshire—only about three hundred miles away—FM will still permit both of them to operate without a trace of cross-interference. This, you'll recall, is because properly designed FM receivers are receptive only to the strongest signal on a given channel and ignore any other stations that might cause whistles, chatter or cross-talk.

FM outlets using the same channel without interference difficulties may be found in such closely spaced cities as New York and Schenectady; Philadelphia and Hartford, Conn.; Boston and New York; Columbus, Ohio, and Detroit, to name but a few. With ordinary broadcasting, half a continent's separation is often not satisfactory.

Three for Indiana

According to prediction, FM station W49FW at Fort Wayne, Indiana, is now on the air, broadcasting from 4 to 10 p.m. each day and offering programs in which classical music predominates. W49FW is operated by Westinghouse Radio Stations, Inc., and is one of four FM outlets which that organization now runs.

Indiana will soon have another FM transmitter in operation, according to recent reports that say W71SB, operated by the South Bend Tribune, is almost ready to go on the air. This will be the state's third frequency-modulation venture. W45V at Evansville has been serving FM listeners for over a year.

Vote of Approval

FM has few supporters quite so enthusiastic and unflagging in their efforts as W45CM at Columbus, Ohio. This pioneer Ohio station conducts periodic surveys among its listeners to gauge the extent of their satisfaction with FM reception and the type of programs that W45CM is putting on the air. A constant upward trend has been noted in the reactions of these central Ohio FM fans.

Personal interviews by researchers last month showed that 92.8 percent of the listeners are enjoying good results—in other words, clear, noise-free reception from W45CM. Of these, 21.6 percent are using outside receiving antennas. The reply to another question—Did FM's staticless qualities increase the listener's radio enjoyment during the past summer?—was an emphatic 98.2 percent. And, although practically all FM set owners paid extra sums to buy a receiver equipped for FM as well as AM, a total of 96.4 percent quickly declared that the additional expenditure had been well worth while in view of dividends in listening pleasure.

UNITED NATIONS TAKE OVER SHORT-WAVE FACILITIES IN NORTH AFRICA

U. S. Short-Wave Stations to Wage All-Out Radio War Against Enemies; License Women Radio Operators for War Emergency Service

By CHARLES A. MORRISON

President, International DX'ers Alliance

In the Mediterranean Zone

OVERNIGHT the war of the Mediterranean has entered a new and spectacular phase. No longer is this great sea merely a Nazi lake. At time of writing, all of French North Africa is in Allied hands, Egypt and most of Libya have been wrested from Rommel's grasp. It seems only a matter of days until Tunisia and the balance of Libya will be under the control of the United Nations, thus giving us a vast and unbroken front to challenge Axis supremacy of transport lines in the Mediterranean; giving us a base from which to launch great offensive attacks upon Italy and the mainland of occupied Europe.

What of radio in this vital war area? Listeners are asking from what stations in this newly enlarged war zone they can expect short-wave reception. In Allied hands we have stations at Rabat, French Morocco; Algiers, Algeria; Cairo, Egypt. In Axis hands is the powerful E. I. A. R. station at Rome, Italy. Transmitters in neutral countries affected in the new scope are located at Lisbon, Portugal; Madrid, Spain, and a small station at Melilla, Spanish Morocco.

In the table below we give present operating schedules and frequencies of the stations mentioned, together with other facts that may be important. It must be borne in mind, however, that these frequencies and schedules are subject to changes. In the case of the Rome station, only transmissions beamed on North America are listed (EWT):

Off to a Good Start

Last week I told about how international broadcasters and the Government had tied up for the duration to wage an all-out radio war against our enemies. The program transition is a gradual one, with the most noticeable change the increased handling of war-news items. Every hour on the hour, from one to six stations of the new network, known as the Bronze Network, may be heard broadcasting the news in English. Right at the moment, French broadcasts are very prominent in all program schedules. Some popular variety and network shows are still being sent overseas to our troops. All in all, the new set-up seems to have gotten off to a good start.

Mr. F. P. Nelson is the manager of the Bronze Network. John R. Sheehan, former program manager of G. E. stations WGEO and WGEA of Schenectady, N. Y., is his assistant.

According to John F. Royal, vice president of NBC, the plans of the Government engineers and those of the private companies give every indication of equaling and even surpassing what is being done by Axis countries. This means more high-powered transmitters and frequencies, which are being arranged for, and close coordination between practical radio operators and those of the Government agencies who can give proper directives. Our country has yet too few transmitters of high power to reach a saturation point of world coverage, and that is what the OWI and CIAA, with the cooperation of the private companies, are striving for.

Unable to reach a financial agreement with the owners of WRUL, the station of the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation was taken over by the Government under a decision of the War Communications Board. Its facilities were assigned to the Office of War Information. It is stated that its owners will receive "fair compensation" for the use of its facilities. It was imperative to bring all short-wave facilities under Federal control before the start of the American offensive in North Africa. This was actually accomplished only three days ahead of the landing of troops in North Africa.

WAR-TIME BRITAIN is described to American listeners by dramatic cast above. Title of their vehicle is "Britain to America," weekly series produced by the BBC, short-waved to the United States and relayed by the Blue Network. Leslie Howard (fifth from left) is program's narrator

Short-Wave Emergency Service

Under Federal and state control, short-wave transmitters are being set up in many localities. In case land lines are broken during air-raids, trained short-wave amateur operators, at police stations or in civilian-defense headquarters, will handle messages so there won't be any danger of one part of a city being cut off from the rest or one city cut off from communication with the outside world. In many instances these units will be manned by girl operators so that men may not be taken from more important duties. In New York City, for example, one thousand girl students will receive Women's War Emergency Radio Service operators' licenses. The first recipient of such a license was Lenore Kingston, who plays Ebba, feminine lead in the NBC feature "Against the Storm."

Puff

"The girl who blew the smoke in Don Ameche's face" is the way they referred to Dale Evans before the singing starlet joined the Chase & Sanborn cast. The vivid bit of acting it referred to was in a film called "Girl Trouble." Neither Dale nor Don knew at the time that either one would be aligned with Charlie McCarthy this season.

Way Back When

Back in 1924, radio was a strange beast, according to the "Danny Thomas Show's" ace comedian, Art Kohl. After broadcasting a skit with a group of stock-company players, one of the actors asked the engineer, "How long before the people will hear what we've just said?"

Puff

"The girl who blew the smoke in Don Ameche's face" is the way they referred to Dale Evans before the singing starlet joined the Chase & Sanborn cast. The vivid bit of acting it referred to was in a film called "Girl Trouble." Neither Dale nor Don knew at the time that either one would be aligned with Charlie McCarthy this season.

Way Back When

Back in 1924, radio was a strange beast, according to the "Danny Thomas Show's" ace comedian, Art Kohl. After broadcasting a skit with a group of stock-company players, one of the actors asked the engineer, "How long before the people will hear what we've just said?"

YOUR EYES are the show windows that reflect the real you, so care for them. Witch-hazel-soaked cotton pads will rest them, but make them appealing with proper make-up that adds character-interest to your face

FEMININE FORUM

By EDITH HAMPTON

Here's Looking at You!

HOW about it? Do you meet a straightforward glance with absolute confidence, or do you drop your eyes from shyness or shame? Eyes, you know, tell your entire story in just one glance, so never, never avoid the candid look of friend or enemy. Such a gesture not only marks you as completely lacking in self-assurance but in these times it is no longer considered attractive to be the coy little girl of bygone days. Men don't like it. So meet that man's stare with a return performance—and meet him on his own grounds! There is no greater thrill of perfect companionship than when you gaze out, and yes—someone looks in!

It doesn't matter one iota whether your eyes are large, small, friendly or soulful, for there are tricks of the trade that will play up your peepers! A pretty ankle may turn a man's head, but a pair of lovely eyes will cause him to lose it completely. So lend attention! Your eyes must be bright and expressive, and if they aren't, look to your health. If there is a delicate film shadowing your orbs, if you are guilty of bloodshot, dull eyes, see your physician—see your oculist. You need professional help.

But you are probably one of the girls who simply needs to accent your eyes—add character and interest to your face. So start your eye-beauty with the brows! Remember, no exotic shapes or thinly penciled lines. They are positively tabu! Strive for a perfectly groomed brow that sweeps upward and outward in a natural curve. When you start the plucking operation, use a broad-tipped tweezer and sponge the surface of your skin with freshener or alcohol. This soothes the skin and minimizes any danger of infection. Begin by brushing your brows upward and outward. Are there a few straggly hairs that do not follow the natural line? Those are the few which must be plucked out. Now reverse the procedure by brushing the brows downward and removing only those stragglers that do not fall in line. And here's a trick of the plucking trade. Stretch the tissue between the thumb and middle finger, and draw it slightly upward. This cuts off the circulation and makes the plucking simpler and less painful. Now sponge your brows once again with freshener and you are ready for your Maybelline pencil.

Actually there are very few of us who possess brows that are even in color and thickness. So whether you are blond or brunette, you must use a pencil for a lasting, natural effect. Make sure the point is well sharpened, and hold the pencil horizontally to your brow. Now make short, slanting strokes—not too heavy, not too light. Dust face-powder over your art work to blur the pencil lines—and then whisk it away. There you have a natural effect and an even color. What a devastating difference!

And don't be afraid of eye-shadow! Although you may want to skip it during the day, by all means use it at night. Electric lights have a graying, aging effect on your eyes, so preserve your beauty with an oily base eye-shadow. Choose a Maybelline shade to blend with your eyes and you will flutter a pair of shimmery, beguiling eyelids! If by chance you have rather prominent eyes, spread the shadow all over the upper lid from the base of your lashes right up to the brow. But if your eyes are deep-set, just apply a faint line at the base of the upper lashes with a mere whisper of a shadow below the outer ends of the brows. There is no better assurance of a dewy, youthful appearance.

Now for the final step in your campaign for eye-beauty—mascara. If you have ever harbored any illusions about mascara splitting your lashes or poisoning your eyes, forget it! A good standard brand like Maybelline is absolutely harmless, so use it with confidence. Your lashes must be perfectly clean and free from any cream before you fringe your eyes with mascara. Use the tiny brush to mix a paste and sweep the brush across the width of the lashes to cover them. Brush from the roots to the tips of each separate lash. And for the maximum amount of flattery and the minimum amount of mascara, repeat the procedure with a clean, dry brush.

There you are! You have accomplished the ideal of eye-beauty. And now you are ready to give that man a "here's looking at you" sort of glance. Stare him down! Your eyes are perfectly groomed and, Milady, you rate high on what we might call "eye cue"!

Anna Schoonhoven, Baileyville, Ill.—ROY ROGERS, born on November 5, 1912, is married to Ailene Williams. He has an adopted child, Darlene . . . In the CBS show, "Ma Perkins," GIL FAUST has the role of John Perkins. Yes, he, too, is married.

Miss A. Henry, Galveston, Texas.—Eugene Denis McNulty used to sing at home when his parents had company, and thus he discovered that people liked to hear his voice. After completing his course at Cathedral High School in New York, where he was born on May 21, 1917, young DENNIS DAY won the Mayor's Scholarship, which got him his first radio job. After his first audition in April, 1939, Dennis was soon singing regularly over a New York station. It was Mary Livingstone who was responsible for the discovery of the new voice. She obtained a record, sent it to Jack Benny, and waited for her husband's verdict. Jack liked the voice even more when he heard it in person, and thus Dennis Day was brought to a wide NBC network. Dennis stands five feet nine inches, weighs about 150 pounds, has dark-brown hair and brown eyes, He likes golf, horseback riding, handball and swimming. He's also a candid-camera fan—which sometimes embarrasses his friends—and spends much time collecting stamps. A bit of the blarney can be found in Dennis, but he is actually shy; praise embarrasses him, and he still can't quite realize that his voice is more important to him financially than the legal training which he received at Manhattan College. He likes the idea of being able to repay his parents for their earlier sacrifices.

Dennis Day: Mary boosted him

Miss Judy Grier, Omaha, Neb.—Glad you like our colyum—and CONNEE BOSWELL. She's a brave gal who's been suffering for years, but she still gets around in that wheelchair. Connee, who used to be Connie and changed her name under the advice of an astrologist, was born in New Orleans on a December 3. The Boswells lived in a world of music, and Connee had this to support her when at the age of four she became almost hopelessly paralyzed as a result of a fall from a coaster-wagon. Connee couldn't play, but she did sing and study music. She organized her two sisters, Martha and Vet, into a trio which became not only a Louisiana favorite but a southern favorite. By 1935 the Boswells were internationally known and loved. In 1936, Connee made her first solo appearance because both of her sisters had told her they were getting married. Irving Berlin chose Connee as the outstanding ballad singer of the nation. A second fall several years ago again incapacitated Connee, but she refused to let such a handicap hinder her. Since then she has been heard on many shows, notably the "Camel Caravan." She spends her spare time painting, playwriting, playing the several instruments of which she is master. Connee makes her own vocal arrangements. She's five feet tall, weighs ninety-four pounds, has chestnut hair, brown eyes, is married to Harry Leedy, artists' manager.

Mrs. Kenneth Hauert, Peotone, Ill.—Here's that complete cast of the NBC show "Stella Dallas" which you requested. ANNE ELSTNER has the lead role of Stella; the part of Minnie is played by GRACE VALENTINE; Dick is MICHAEL FITZMAURICE; VIVIAN SMOLEN is Laurel; WALTER KINSELLA takes the part of Gus; Bob is portrayed by ALBERT ALEY; ELAINE KENT is Madge; and KENNETH DAIGNEAU is Fletcher. Some weeks back we published the cast of the five-a-week "Our Gal Sunday" (see November 7-13 issue). In the serial "Big Sister," it is ERIC DRESSLER who has the role of Frank Wayne; Maude Kellogg in "Life Can Be Beautiful" is played by RUTH WESTON; and in "Portia Faces Life," the role of Walter Manning is handled by BARTLETT ROBINSON.

D. E. Otto, West New York, N. J.—When we published the biography of singer HARRY BABBITT, it was with his express permission and approval. In fact, he wrote us most of the details himself. If you have heard that he has no children—in fact, is not even married—then it is possible that the publicity is either not strictly up to date or just doesn't mention the whole story.

Mrs. R. M. Clive, West Palm Beach, Fla.—Sorry, but I don't know whether or not DOROTHY KILGALLEN is coming back on the air. We all miss her.

Bulls & Boners

Bulls and boners are a part of broadcasting. No matter how experienced the performer or how famous the star, chances are that he will make an occasional slip or a statement with twisted meaning which is extremely funny. MEAT-RATIONING presents no problem to Lucille Wall of NBC's "Portia Faces Life" serial. She consults her butcher on types of cuts, restricted and unrestricted meats. Right: Pot roast, a delectable dish that will enable you to stretch the food budget. Cook it with care, use imagination to dress it up

WHAT'S COOKING!

By GEORGIA SCOTT

Make the Most of Your Meat

CALLING all housewives! Uncle Sam has asked that all Americans ration themselves to two and one-half pounds of meat a week, and the success of this voluntary meat-rationing is your individual responsibility. So it's up to you, Mrs. Housewife. You must share with your neighbors, with people whom you don't even know. You must rigidly keep yourself within this limit. Our Army and Navy need meat and lots of it so our fighting forces will keep fit and able. Do your part!

This doesn't mean that you or your family will suffer from the lack of nutritious meats. Not at all. Our Government has taken what it needs for our fighting forces, and the quantity of meat on the market is for you to buy and for you to eat. But do remember, there are many women working in defense plants who must do their shopping late in the afternoon—so don't be greedy. Buy only what you need. Buy unusual cuts.

The American Meat Institute has listed various things that a woman should observe during this time of voluntary meat-rationing. They are golden rules to help you share the meat—to get the most for your money. Here they are:

1. Plan your meals in advance so your self-allotment is well distributed over the week.

2. Learn everything there is to know about the various cuts of meat, nonrestricted and restricted.

3. Take care of your meat after you buy it. Remove wrappings from all fresh meat, wipe, and loosely cover. Store in a cold place until cooking-time. Take particular care of chopped or ground meat.

4. Cook all meat properly. Well-fatted cuts should be broiled or roasted in an uncovered pan at a low or medium temperature. Use very little water and don't overcook.

5. Be thrifty with meat left-overs and save all usable pieces of meat for stews, hash or meat patties. Save bones for soup. Use fat trimmings for gravies or stews.

6. Stretch the meat flavor by combining meat with other foods, such as vegetables, bread crumbs, potatoes, rice, spaghetti. This makes your meat go further. Stuff chops and bread your cutlets to make one pound look like two.

7. Try something new in the way of meats. Eat kidneys, hearts, tongue, sweetbreads, brains and tripe. You will find that this voluntary meat-rationing can be a spark to your imagination, an adventure in the culinary arts. Here are a few ideas:

Kidney Stew

1 pound kidneys
2 onions, medium size
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups water
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter or bacon drippings

Remove every trace of white tubes from the kidneys. Cut the kidneys into cubes. Soak them one hour in cold salt water. Drain, add fresh cold water, and bring to the boiling-point. Discard this water and add another three cups of cold water. Bring to a boiling-point, skim, add sliced onions and seasonings, and simmer about one hour until kidneys are tender. Brown the flour in the fat and gradually add the kidneys and stock, stirring constantly. Cook slowly about fifteen minutes. Serve with boiled rice and a garnish of toast points; currant jelly, lemon juice or horseradish may be added.

Beef Heart Fricassee

1 beef heart
1 bunch carrots
2 medium-size onions
salt, pepper
prepared mustard
flour
4 tablespoons drippings
1 cup water or tomatoes
1 bay leaf

Remove large arteries and veins; wash out all clotted blood. Slice (across the meat). Sprinkle with salt and pepper, spread with rich, brown prepared mustard and roll in flour. Brown in hot drippings in a large, heavy frying-pan. Add water and bay leaf. Cover and simmer gently for thirty minutes. Add carrots and onions sliced. Add additional liquid, if fricassee is cooking dry. Cover and simmer gently until carrots and onions are tender. Serves three or four.

Spiced Tongue

1 beef tongue
Juice of one lemon
2 medium onions, sliced
6 or 8 whole cloves
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
6 whole berries black pepper
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup raisins
3 tablespoons flour

Soak tongue in vinegar for twenty-four hours. Drain and cover with hot water. Add lemon juice, onion and seasonings. Simmer until tender, three to four hours. Brown the sugar in a skillet and add one and one-half cups of the strained liquid in which the tongue was cooked. Add raisins and flour mixed to a smooth paste in a little cold water. Cook this sauce until thickened. Add sliced tongue and serve.

America on Trial!

of fighting this war. I use that phrase because I can't forget what Paris was like three years ago in the "phony war." In the uneventful trenches soldiers froze, grew filthy and died of pneumonia, while in Paris American fashion experts were giving interviews saying wasn't it wonderful how dear, brave France was carrying on, having the fashion shows despite the war? The phase of patriotic monograms embroidered on five-dollar handkerchiefs in the swanky shops. The phase of the swagger-stick and the gabardine uniforms crowding the Ritz bar at the aperitif hour. The junior-league phase with expanded society pages. Call it the Stork Club phase of total war, if you wish. Anyway, thousands of us still live in it; we haven't caught up with the war in its deep tragedy and its awful profoundness.

Because we have not, many things continue to hamper us. Military and naval leaders act as though the war were their private, professional enterprise and they resent questions about how they're running it; the spirit of Annapolis versus West Point lives on instead of being left to the football field; hundreds of congressmen yield to the needs of pressure groups rather than the needs of the whole nation; the Chief Executive postpones dismissal of the incompetents in office and deeply resents criticism, although this war cannot possibly be conducted intelligently without constant criticism; the war effort is used as a cloak for some interests to advance the New Deal and by others to destroy the New Deal. Because the desperate war spirit has not yet come over us at home, anti-British sentiment ebbs and flows and suspicions of Russia, because it is Communist, continue to flourish in shady places. One would almost think we had a surplus of allies and could afford to insult them at will. Because many of us do not understand the tremendous stakes in this war, we calmly vote prewar isolationists back into Congress, not remembering that they showed a fundamental ignorance of the world and that they may be there to vote on the organization of peace. Thus we casually risk throwing the whole thing away, as we did after the last war. Was even Hitler more careless of human lives!

Gradually we at home are ceasing to behave as though this war were a profitable and exciting adventure. Gradually the iron is entering our souls. But we are so slow, so very slow. No one in America can do more to speed the process than we of the radio and motion pictures; no, not even the President or Congress. But first we must take stock of ourselves; we must walk off six paces and take a good look at ourselves. Then we must reorganize and set to work, resolved to resist the first screams of protest from that tyrant, the box-office. They will die away in time. We will have the people with us, and what is more, we will be with the people.

findings are superficial and occasionally inaccurate.

Grohms are radio's equivalent of gremlins, those Little People who are staging their own private feud with United Nations fliers in Europe. Gremlins, as countless articles have told you, specialize in puncturing gas-tanks, snipping control wires in flight, and playing hob with compass readings.

The NBC report names several major types of grohms, which it might be well to review briefly:

Flucues: Grohms who grab cues from directors' finger-tips and fly around the studio with them so the actors can't pick them up. This makes for awkward pauses and for overlaps between music and dialog. Fern Persons of "Helpmate" contends that flucues also switch the pages of scripts, but this is an obvious error. Such activity is the work of pigands, whose normal job is to confuse linotypers setting this publication, and who visit the studios with me. Grohms call them in for such specialized assistance.

Fluffniks: Grohms who climb up microphones and toss pebbles in actors' mouths. This makes the talkers fluff their lines. Joe Kelly of "Barn Dance" is the source of considerable data on their habits. Art Van Harvey (Vic) claims to have discovered a related grohm called the smudget, who blurs type on scripts so as to cause fluffs.

Squirtlies, dribblies, shiffles: These are sound-effects grohms. Squirtlies have little oil-cans with which to oil hinges that are supposed to squeak. Dribblies take showers in the rain machine, and sometimes sing as they bathe. The effect on a serious drama is terrifying. Shiffles switch the labels on sound-effects records, guaranteeing that a program which needs the soft song of a woodland bird will get a fine rendition of an auto crash.

Tempofugues: The NBC version is that these grohms pull the minute hand forward toward the end of programs that are already running too long. Joe, my personal pigand, insists that what they really do is time the programs better than the directors. If they like a program, they put the brakes on the clock hands, forcing the entertainers to ad lib some extra entertainment. But when the jokes get too corny they push the clock ahead.

So far, the NBC report isn't too bad. But it omits all references to mikilettas. Mikilettas are feminine grohms, just as fifinellas are feminine gremlins. They are subtler than grohms, flightier, meaner, yet sometimes kinder. I once watched a mikiletta drive an engineer crazy by playing with the sound indicator. She would push the meter up when the sound was low, and he'd frantically lower the volume. The result on the air was ghastly. I asked her about it, and she said it was because the engineer didn't believe in Santa Claus and didn't buy war bonds. The next day I saw the same mikiletta (her name's Suzy) almost in tears because an actor was flopping in an audition. She quickly switched mikes with him and put on a performance that was marvelous. "But he'll flop on the show," I remonstrated. "I know," she replied. "But he's cute and hungry and he might as well get one pay-check, anyway."

Basically, grohms and mikilettas aren't vicious. A little unreliable, maybe, a little mischievous. But by and large they are a minor annoyance.

Now, pigands are something else again. Thoroughly bad characters——

Don't pay any attention to Andrews. This is Joe Pigand talking. If we didn't edit his copy, you'd read the worst tripe. Still he complains because we stick in a National Broadcasting System once in a while or say that H. V. Swing is heard on Mutual. Nuts to him! Etaoinshrdlu. So long.
